

KINGSTON SHAKESPEARE SEMINAR AT GARRICK'S TEMPLE

KINGSTON
SHAKESPEARE
SEMINAR

SHAKESPEARE AND MARX

SATURDAY JUNE 24 2017

Garrick's Temple to Shakespeare

GARRICK MUSEUM, EDUCATIONAL FACILITY, CONCERT VENUE & THEATRE

Kingston
University
London

PROGRAMME:

10.00: Chair: Richard Wilson (Kingston University)

David Hawkes (Arizona State University)

'Marx and Shakespeare Today: Towards an Ethics of Representation'

11.00: Coffee

11.30: Chair: Kiernan Ryan (Royal Holloway University)

Chris Fitter (Rutgers University)

'Shakespeare and the Tudor Ferment: A Marxist Homecoming?'

Gabriel Egan (De Montfort University):

'Shakespeare::Marx && community::writing'

13.00: Lunch (Bell Inn, Hampton)

14.00: Chair: David Schalkwyk (Queen Mary University)

Christian Smith (Independent scholar, Berlin)

"'Ay, his breast. So says the bond":

Marx, Shakespeare and the Theory of Labour Power'

Martin McQuillan (Kingston University):

'Marx's Timon: Reading and Quantitative Easing'

15.30: Tea

16.00: Chair: Aaron Kitch (Bowdoin College)

Hugh Grady (Arcadia University):

'Shakespeare and Marx: A Select Genealogy'

17.00: Round Table Discussion

19.45: Chamber Concert: Marx's Music (Lovekyn Consort)

Tickets are £20 (includes sandwich lunch, coffee and tea) and £12 for the concert

Please register for the symposium and / or concert on Eventbrite

All proceeds go to supporting the Temple

Kingston Shakespeare

@kingstonshakes

kingstonshakespeare